Our do-it-yourself sauna kit contains all the parts needed to build an in-home or commercial sauna.

Pre-cut saunas can be manufactured in standard sizes or be custom cut for virtually any room. Installation will require you to frame and insulate the designated area, and we provide everything else needed to complete the project. Just follow the assembly sheets provided for easy step-by-step instructions. Please note that this kit is designed for experienced contractors or do-it-yourselfers with good woodworking skills and an understanding of basic carpentry.

Pre-cut kits are also known as "materials kits" and are the choice of architects and builders for most commercial installations or non-standard rooms.

We give you options of two types of premium wood – Clear European Alder and Clear Western Red Cedar.

Clear Western Red Cedar is a popular wood in Canada and America for sauna construction. With a distinct aroma and variations of dark and light brown colors, cedar is used for both residential and commercial sauna projects. Western Red Cedar contains oils that act as a natural preservative to help Cedar resist decay, making it also the natural choice for outdoor sauna construction.

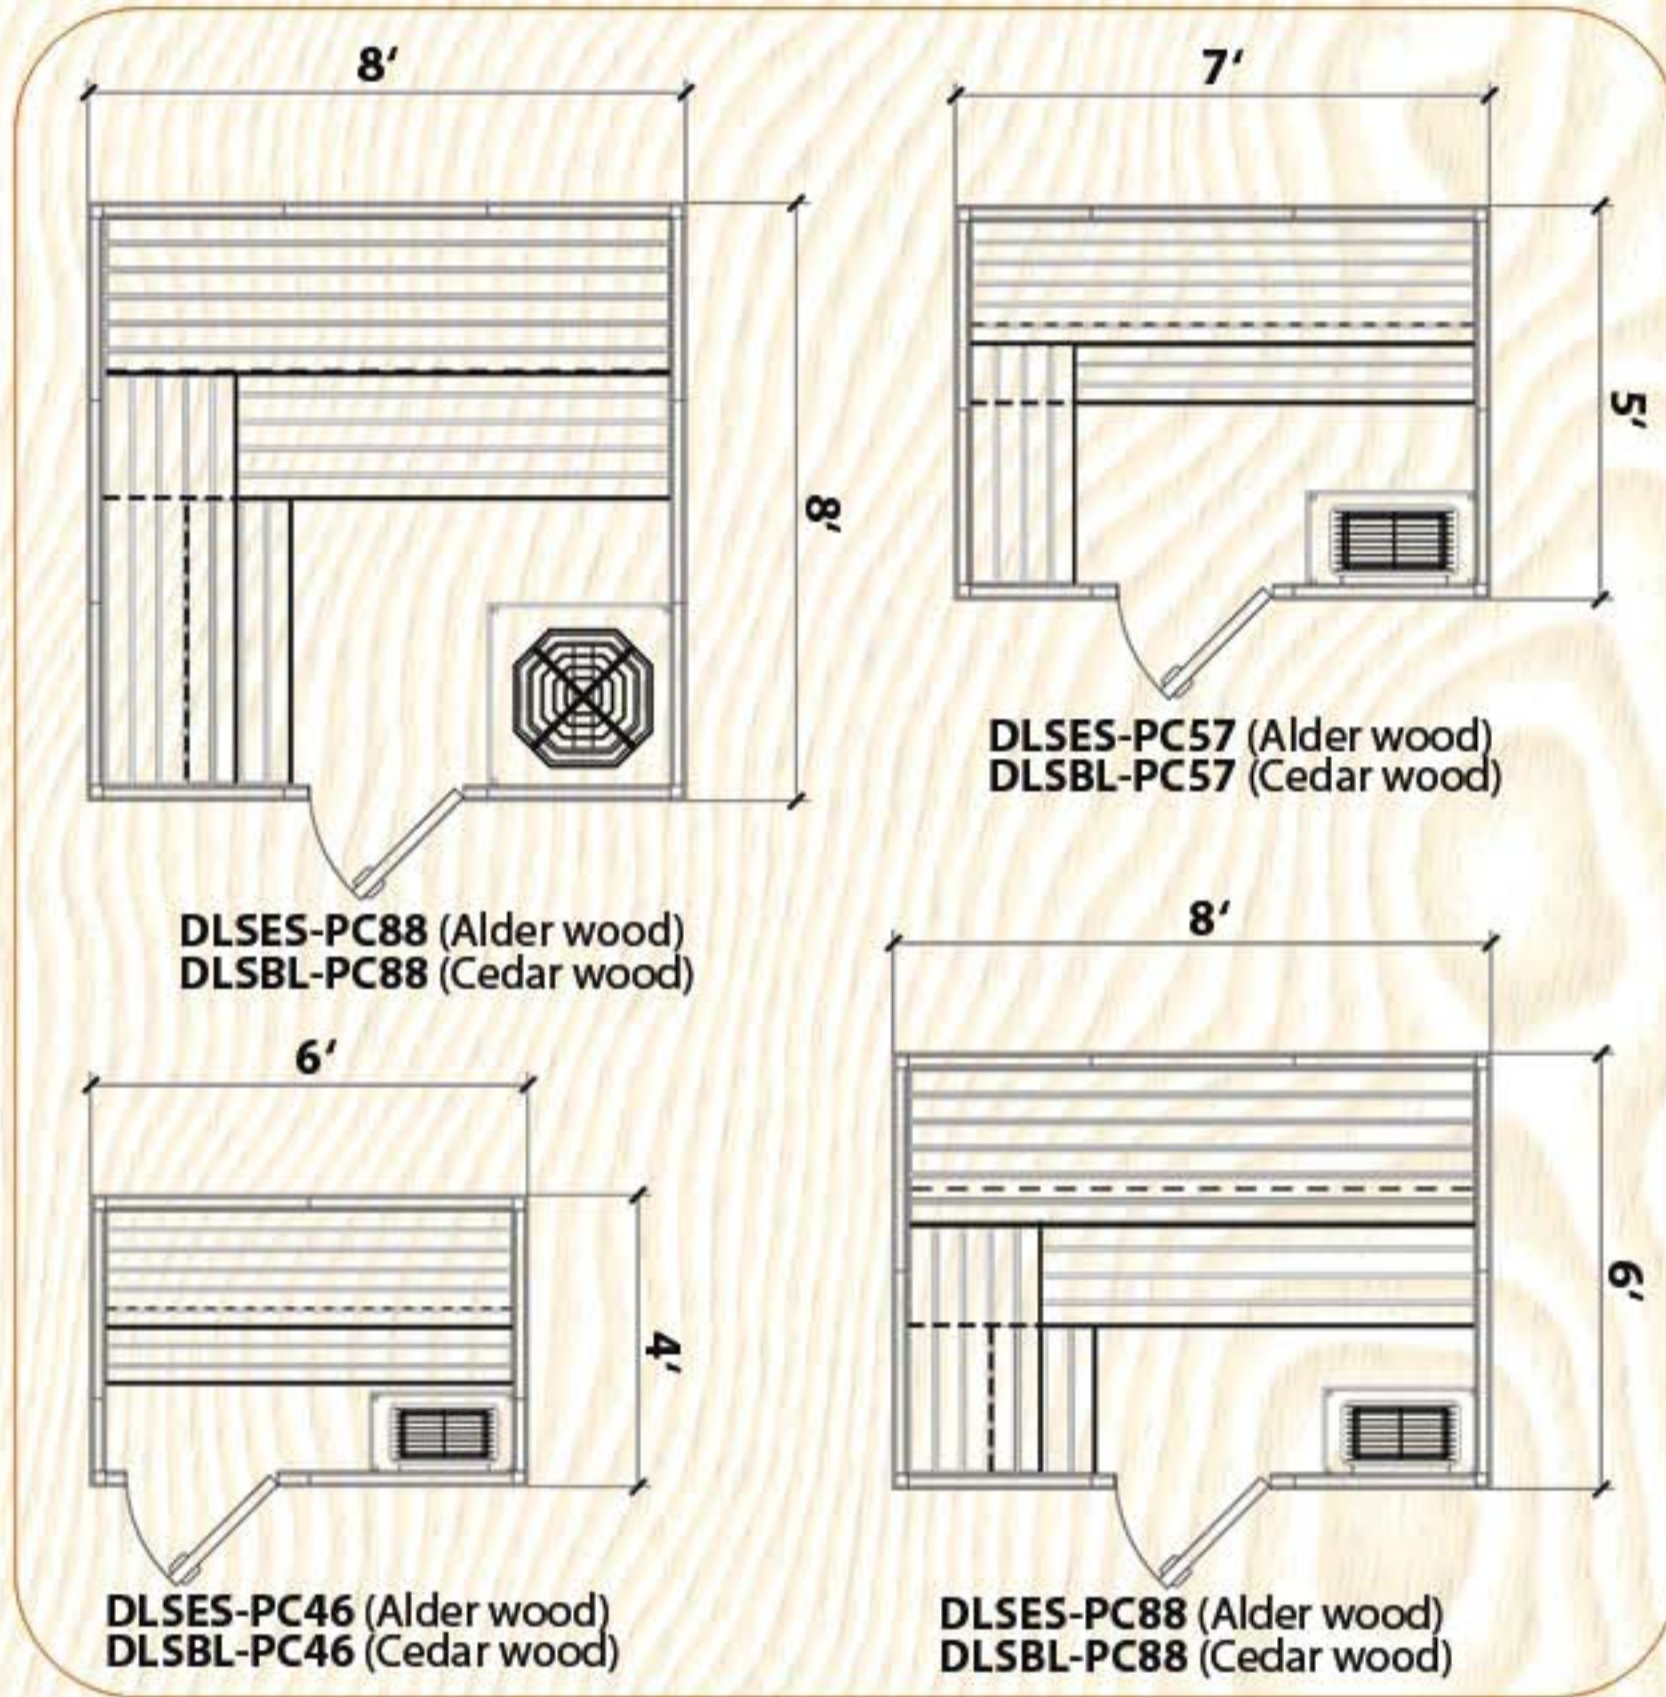

Clear Premium European Alder is a beautiful, even, light honey-colored wood - a favorite of European sauna builders. Among the many distinguishing characteristics of Alder is its ability not to evolve in color or darken with exposure to light, moisture or heat. Alder is the base wood used for centuries in Russian Sauna building and has become the wood of choice for sauna construction in Finland and most of Europe.

In addition to your choice of wood, you can pick from a variety of doors and heaters. Our heater options also include commercial units with external controls, computer controls and timers.
